

Coffee Production

The graph shows coffee exports for the top 12 countries in the world in 2010 and 2011. Overall, the biggest producers by far are Brazil and Vietnam, and there has not been much change in the ranking of the top producers in the last two years.

Almost every country in the graph produced more coffee in 2011 than in 2010. Brazil was the largest producer. It increased exports from 30,000,000 bags in 2010 to almost 35,000,000 in 2011. Vietnam was the second largest producer, and it also increased its output from under 14,000,000 bags to about 17,000,000. Colombia, Indonesia and India exported almost the same amount, at between 6 and 8 million bags, and then a large group of countries including Peru, Guatemala, Honduras, Ethiopia, Uganda and Mexico produced about 3 or 4 million bags in both years.

Only two countries in the graph exported less in 2011. They were Indonesia and Cote d'Ivoire. In Cote d'Ivoire, production fell by 50%, from 2 million bags to 1 million.

International Coffee Organization: <http://www.ico.org/prices/m1.htm>

Enda Tuomey